DRAYTON VALLEY, ALBERTA -- MAY 3, 1972

Mr. Trudeau and Mr. Sulatycky meet Edson Cubs.

Cordial Crowd Greets P.M. On Visit to Constituency

Prime Minister Trudeau told a packed Edson audience last Thursday that the government never had any intention of changing the name of the RCMP while it was replacing the force's initials with the word POLICE on buildings and patrol cars.

The Prime Minister made the announcement during his visit to Rocky Mountain Constituency with M.P. Allen Sulatycky. The Edson visit was the only stop by the P.M. in the riding.

He said "the dislike of the new signs by Canadians--Western Canadians in particular -- has been communicated to us clearly and we have listened."

The sign-changing program, planned to provide simple identification, has been stopped, the federal government "will not introduce any insignia which does not make use of the full name and which does not emphasize the national character of the force," Mr. Trudeau said.

Solicitor - General Jean-Pierre Goyer is already working with Alberta Attorney-General Merv Leitch to review the whole question of appropriate signs and insignia for the force, the prime minister said.

Water Use Restricted

A questionable water situation has prompted Town Council to institute water rationiong effective immediately.

The town will be required to depend on wells for the rest of the summer as completion of the new system is not anticipated until about September. The wells are capable of only producing an adequate supply for normal use and fall far behind the demand for heavy summer outdoor watering.

Rationing is now in effect as follows: North side of 50th Avenue, Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, between 7:00 and 9:00 p.m. only; South side of 50th Avenue, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, between 7:00 and 9:00 p.m. only; the whole town, Sundays, between 7:00 and 9:00 p.m. only.

Baseball Club Holds Meeting

An organizational meeting to promote senior baseball in Drayton Valley was held on Wednesday, April 26th.

This meeting was called on very short notice so it was not possible to give it very much publicity. However, approximately 15 people attended and much of the ground work, that is necessary to promote good baseball, was done.

The next meeting will again be held in the A. Meier Real Estate Building on Thursday, May 4th and at that time members of the executive will be elected and committee members will be appointed. It is very important that all people interested in having the type of baseball this town deserves, attend the next meeting.

The town has hundreds of ardent baseball fans and supporters feel that we have many able baseball players that could put Drayton Valley on the map again as the home of a Provincial Championship team. To accomplish this, we not only need a strong ball team but also a group of strong and willing workers to serve on the executive. The job of the baseball players is to play baseball and this is all that should be expected of them. Administration and promotion work must be done by people other than ball players.

At the last meeting there was some discussion regarding playing in a league, playing tournament ball only, or both. No decision was made so this matter must be resolved at the next meeting. It was also decided that new uniforms be obtained.

The first local tournament is planned for Sunday and Monday, May 21st and 22nd. This will be an eight team affair and should feature some very entertaining baseball. The feeling of the meeting also appeared to be that since we are reviving baseball under a new and, we hoped somewhat different setup, we should also have a new name for the club. Your suggestions for a name would be welcome.

You can bring your thoughts on this to the next meeting or phone Mr. Adrian Meier prior to the meeting. Further information will be provided in the next edition of the newspaper.

Rebels Present Club Trophies

Drayton Valley Rebels Hockey Club was honored at their fifth annual banquet when over 370 guests attended the affair in the Frank Maddock High School April 30th.

Introduction of players and presentation of trophies followed the gourmet supper catered to by Mrs. B. Urchyshyn. Doug Barnes acted as Master of Ceremonies for the evening, with a program provided by the Drayton Valley Entertainers, and dance music by Lorenz Orchestra.

Most Valuable Player of the year went to Sam Belcourt. He was awarded the Reinhart trophy by Mr. Harold Reinhart.

Dan Davie won the Best Defenseman trophy, donated by J & A Trucking and presented by Emil Lambert.

M & R Trucking's Most Gentlemanlike trophy, presented by Freddie Bowman, was awarded to Henry Hodgson.

"The player who gives the most for the least recognition" trophy, awarded by Howie Jansen on behalf of Jansen's Auto Body, went to Frank Novosel.

Draws on the trailer, dishwashers and golf clubs were made during the dance, with John Wieting of Drayton Valley winning the trailer, Pat O'Connel and H. J. Hezholz of Drayton Valley winning the dishwashers, and Drs. I. Waugh, T. Eustace, and W. Cookson winning the golf clubs.

Hope Held for Reduction In Water Plant Costs

Following a meeting with Associated Engineering Services in Edmonton on Friday, April 21st, Mayor Lloyd MacLean expressed the hope that about $70,000 might be cut from the total cost of the town's new water system.

Tenders for the treatment plant, intake and pumphouse were opened recently and found to be $205,227. over the original estimate. The higher than expected cost prompted the meeting between town officials and the engineers to examine the possibility of reducing costs.

Mr. MacLean advised Town Council at its last regular meeting, that cut-backs in some areas without reducing efficiency, could possibly save close to $70,000. in materials, equipment and labor.

The engineering firm was queried on how the original estimate of $261,700. for constructing the water treatment plant could be so much less than the actual cost of $466,927. computed from tenders, quotations on equipment, and actual cost of some portions of the project already completed.

The engineers explained that the estimates were based on a proposed plant to supply up to 350 gallons of water per minute but it was later decided to base the project on 500 gallons per minute which entailed extra size throughout and addidtional costs for design, material and labor had grown from that point.

They also attributed some of the additional cost to customizing of the clarifier to handle the particular silt properties of the river, and the subsequent doubling of the filters.

A page by page study was made to determine areas where cost-cutting might be effected. Building revision is expected to save about $12,500.; mechanical revision, $12,900.; electrical, $3,100.; and instrumentation, $5,200. These reductions are also expected to be accompanied by reduced labor costs.

The engineers agreed to approach the three lowest bidders on the basis of the plant revision and seek new bids.

Presentation of ensign.

Cadet Squadron Receives Ensign

Drayton Valley's Air Cadet Squadron #733 received the ensign April 27 at a dedication and citizenship ceremony at Frank Maddock High School.

Following inspection of the squadron by dignitaries and a speech by Mayor MacLean, Father Lynch said a prayer in honor of the cadets and the new ensign. Ex-first commanding officer Mr. McCullagh dedicated the Ensign to be ever to the cadets "an Emblem of Youth, Honesty and self-discipline.

George Esdale, past president of the Air Cadet League (Provincial Committee), explained that the new ensign is a design for all Canadian squadrons. He said there are 400 air cadet squadrons in Canada with 44 of them being in Alberta.

P.M. Visits

"The high stature enjoyed by the RCMP in Canada and throughout the world is a matter of pride to all Canadians," he said and Ottawa "is determined not to permit any issue to detract from that prestige."

The Prime Minister's evening meeting was attended by about 1,000 people from Edson and area. Several Drayton Valley residents attended.

Mr. Trudeau was very cordially received in the community and at the close of the two hour meeting he was obviously pleased with the way the meeting went and commented on "the tremendous atmosphere in the district."

During the evening meeting Mr. Trudeau listened to briefs from the Edson Chamber of Commerce, a Unifarm official, the Hinton Pulp, Sulphide and Paper Mill Workers, and the Parkland Composite High School student union.

Replying to fears of the students about the environmental consequences of the proposed $30 million Village Lake Louise plan he outlined an attitude toward decision-making that was the same as that involved in the RCMP issue.

"We have no basic desire to do something which displeases Canadians . . . when we make decisions they are not engraved in stone, we make decisions that people want."

He said he understands the fears of environmentalists and conservationists who don't want areas of wilderness desecrated or destroyed. But on the other hand people want to travel through these areas and have places to stay.

Noting hundreds of briefs had been submitted to public hearings on the Village Lake Louise proposal, the PM said the government "hopes to arrive at some kind of solution which seems reasonable to reasonable people."

He said it was difficult to reconcile points of view in the labor brief, which said that there is too much unemployment but incentive grants should not be given to foreign corporations locating in designated areas, and the Chamber of Commerce brief calling for extension of designated incentive areas boundaries to include Edson.

While Stan Fritter, of the pulp mill workers, said Canada now has more jobless than France, Germany and Norway combined, the prime minister replied that more jobs have been created in Canada in five years than in seven European countries with a combined population 11 times that of Canada.

"I feel that more opportunities for advancement are offered in air cadets than any other organization," Mr. Esdale said.

He explained that air cadets now aim at training boys for citizenship and physical fitness, rather than training them for recruitment to the armed forces as was previously done.

Mr. Esdale presented Sgt. David MacMillan of #733 Squadron with a certificate to the six-week Senior Leadership Course at Camp Bordon, Ontario. Sgt. MacMillan is one of 240 Canadian Air Cadets to receive such an award.

Officer Cadet Aikenhead, representing the Air Cadet Office in Edmonton, brought warnings of the upcoming annual inspection; and Mrs. Ball, representing the Legion Ladies' Auxiliary felt the "boys looked really good."

Judge Allen of the Citizenship Court of Northern Alberta, granted citizenship to all air cadet members and to a few local citizens.

LEGISLATIVE REPORT

RUSTY ZANDER, M.L.A.

We are now coming to the end of the eighth week of the sitting of the Seventeenth Legislature, and perhaps now the Members realize that we had better get into high gear if we wish to get the business before us completed before mid-June.

Our major amendment to the Highway Traffic Act was brought in, which will remove the necessity for persons over the age of seventy years to take a driver's test every year, unless, of course, they have been involved in an accident, when this would be mandatory. However, they will still be subject to a medical and eye examination.

The Government Position Paper on Oil Royalties was tabled in the Legislature this week, and it sets forth the situation the government is in with regards to Royalties on oil in the Province of Alberta at this time.

The Position Paper puts forth the direction and the options that are open to the government, and rather than make arbitrary decisions, it wishes to hear what the people in the oil industry have to say, and also what the people of Alberta have to say.

I know that there are three positions brought forth in this regard by the public at large. There are those that are saying that the Government should take all that the traffic can bear, and perhaps kill the goose that laid the golden egg; and there are others saying it is enough already; and again, others who say let us look at it closely, study and hear from the people in the business; bring in the concerns of the people of the province, and let them hear this in open discussion, and then make a decision after the hearing. I believe that the latter course is the best one to follow and in just this manner we will hear the problems of industry, and certainly these must be many. Also, the people of this province will become more informed on the matter, and when all sides have been heard, the Government can come up with a sensible Royalty rate which will be acceptable to both the industry and the people of Alberta.

The ways and means of groups wishing to make submissions, and the deadlines for forwarding these submissions to the Committee of the Legislature will be set out in the news media and our local weekly and daily newspapers, so if there are any groups wishing to submit briefs, they will have to guide themselves accordingly.

The hearings will begin on May 23rd, 1972 and continue for four days. It may be necessary to extend these, depending on the number of briefs submitted by the deadline time as set forth.

The unusual always seems to happen in the House, and it does happen, as at the close of the week, when a Notice of Motion was filed by the Conservative Member from Whitecourt, asking the Government to present, or reveal, the names of those Government Members on the Social Credit Board, established in 1937, and continuing on into 1948, to study Social Credit Policies, and the amount of monies paid to the members for this study. And, we find that during the years of 1937 to 1941, some $164,-896.81 was spent by this Social Credit Caucus Committee, from Provincial Treasury. So, indeed contrary to the statement made in the House by the Social Credit member from Drumheller, the Social Credit Government in the past did pay large sums of money to its M.LA.'s to study Social Credit Policies.

In closing, it may be worthy to note that out of the provincial budget of one billion dollars plus, over 800 million dollars are spent on the Department of Health and Social Development, and the Department of Education, or approximately 75% of the total budget is spent by these two Departments. It may be time for the Government to somehow apply the brakes on the spending of these huge sums of money, without first studying whether we are receiving the benefits from these Departments, or if there is some waste of public money, and if so, how this could be corrected.

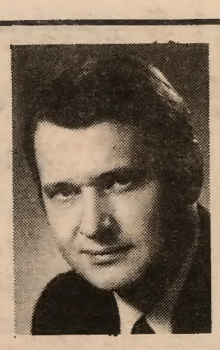
Report From Parliament Hill



By Allen Sulatycky, M.P.

One of our popular sayings is that there are two sides to every coin. This saying is true for subjects which must be considered from two or more points of view, but it does not hold true for major political or social events.

We are kept current of political or social events by the mass-media. As a result, we are able to examine all the aspects of such an event and to compare different events with each other. Such is the case for President Nixon's speech in the House of Commons on Friday, April 14, 1972.

Some people felt that there was very little of substance or interest in his speech. I do not agree. In a troubled era such as that in which we live; an era where wars and civil disorders fill our newspapers every week; an era where it is becoming more and more difficult to get along with other countries of the world, I am convinced that the words "peace" and "friendship" with which the President so generously sprinkled his speech, are the proper words to resolve tensions and to promote an amicable and relaxed at mosphere for discussion.

We are neighbors with the United States not only because of our common border but also because of our industrial and commercial ties which form the basis of all national economies. The fact that there are basic differences between ourselves and our neighbors to the south, does not seem to me to be a problem. Quite the contrary, if as the President maintains, there is the desire for friendly and relaxed negotiations, these differences can't help but provide stimulation to our politicians and businessmen; stimulate them to develop new manufacturing techniques; stimulate them to create new "marketing" methods to keep us in competition with our neighbors.

The President's visit and his speech, together with Prime Minister Trudeau's December visit to Washington have helped to cement our important and long-standing relationship.

LEGISLATIVE REPORT

By Kevin Peterson of The Calgary Herald

Premier Peter Lougheed has thrown the hot potato of increasing natural resource revenues at Alberta's oil companies with a proposed mineral tax that would add $50 to 90 million to provincial coffers next year.

In a statement of a tentative provincial policy tabled on April 24, the Conservative government side-stepped the problem of locked-in 16 2/3 per cent oil royalty contract maximum and proposed instead taxing of crude oil reserves.

To soften the blow to the oil industry - and to increase the province's slumping oil exploration industry -- the proposal also puts forward an "Exploratory Drilling Incentive System." The incentive system would exempt new discovery wells and an initial group of step-out wells from both royalties and the new tax until 1977.

No details were given on how the proposed tax would work. Basically it would put oil leaseholders in a similar position to property owners- an assessor would evaluate their crude oil reserves and a mill rate would be struck to determine the tax.

The proposal is by no means final. In fact, there are good indications that the government would be very happy if the oil industry came back with a counter-offer to reopen lease contracts so a new royalty would be negotiated instead of the tax.

But one thing is certain, the province intends to make sure the oil industry pays $50 to $90 million more next year. This year's oil royalties are expected to raise $216 million, so the proposed tax would be equivalent to an increase of 25 to 50 per cent in the royalty rate.

"Significant expanded sources of government revenues must begin to flow into the provincial treasury now in order to provide part of the funds for new programs.. to help finance industry for Albertans," the statement said.

"Clearly, revenues from a depleting natural resource are an appropriate source of such funds."

For the moment, the proposed tax would apply only to reserves of crude oil from conventional sources. A proposal for natural gas is expected in the fall, while an oil sands policy and review of coal royalties will follow later.

The Lougheed administration has promised a decision on the crude oil royalties by July 30. Public hearings, will begin in the Legislature May 23 and are likely to last for four days on the government proposal.

Mines and Minerals Minister Bill Dickie said the proposal the Tories opted for carries a number of advantages. It is constitutional and builds on an existing tax base. It is within lease clauses allowing for new taxes while making no attempt to void the more than 30,000 contracts which specify a 16-2/3 per cent royalty maximum.

It assures freehold interest as well as Crown leases will pay the increase and permits "a fair and reasonable return" to Alberta. It also allows the combination of royalties and the mineral tax to be reduced by the incentive drilling acheme.

Reaction to the proposal was as expected. Oil industry officials were negative, saying it would stifle expansion. NDP leader Grant Notley meanwhile called for a $200 million increase. Socred members would not commit themselves on the proposal.

Be on Guard

The toll taken of children's lives and health in Canada by accidents is staggering -- some two thousand killed and tens of thousands injured seriously.

What can be done about it? The Canada Safety Council offers no easy solutions. But progress will be made in reducing accidents through simultaneous improvement in the following four areas:

1. Safety education of children at home and school.
2. Creation of a safe environment for children.
3. The assumption of parental responsibility for the safety of children.
4. The assumption of responsibility by adults, especially drivers, for the safety of children.

To be effective, safety education must change the attitudes of children towards safety, starting in the pram and continuing until adulthood.

Children must know how to cope with traffic before being allowed to "run out and play". They must know the rules of the road and traffic safety before being allowed to bicycle on public roads. They must be taught to swim before being allowed to play in any but shallow bodies of water.

To create a safe environment for children, all poisonous substances must be kept away from tots as well as stove and electrical hazards. The very young should never be left alone in baths or wading pools.

A safe environment includes living in a home that is not a fire trap. The leading causes of fire are adults smoking, electrical hazards and defective heating. A safe environment includes a car in which child passengers are secured by restraining devices.

Parental responsibility for a child's safety is concentrated on the patient, positive teaching of safety starting with the very young. But this can all be undone if the parent himself or herself fails to teach by example.

It is not intended to give parents guilt complexes about safety. They can hardly be held responsible for the safety of children when they are out of their control.

But it is not reasonable to place all the blame for accidents on children, either. They do not start off as mature people with judgement. That takes a long, long time. They have short attention spans. They may be safe most of the time but unsafe at others because they are distracted by something new, something exciting.

This is where the responsibility of all adults for the safety of children is most important. Should a child be sentenced to death because a driver wants to go at the maximum speed through a residential area and a youngster makes a mistake?

Adults must recognize that there are many kinds of children -- some careful, some risk-taking, some too careful for their own good (like the adult driver who goes 25 mph in a 60 mph zone).

There are children who can be trained easily and others who have to learn through their mistakes. But Canada has need for all these different types of individuals.

Guard their lives. Always be on the lookout for the safety of children. Always give them a break. They are the future of the country.

Know Your Schools

This "Question and Answer" column provides an opportunity for citizens to ask questions about education. If you have any question concerning the schools you are encouraged to send it to "Know Your Schools?" P.O. Box 777, Stony Plain, Alberta.

Question -- How much does it cost the County of Parkland for the busing of students and for student boarding allowances, and where does this money come from?

Answer -- During the 1971 fiscal year, the total expenditure for the conveyance of students was $550,432.00.

Grants from the School Foundation Program Fund covered $486,014.00 of this amount, leaving a deficit on busing operations of $64,-418.00. In addition to the above expenditure, a total of $720.40 was spent on transportation services for students attending special schools, and $901.90 was paid to individuals in lieu of conveyance. Ninety percent of these amounts was refunded to the County by the Foundation Program.

Boarding allowances during 1971 totalled $18,914.68. These are paid to a parent at the rate of $2.50 per each day that a pupil is necessarily maintained away from his residence. Similarly, ninety percent of the total boarding allowances are refundable through the Foundation Program. The deficit in the busing operations and the balance of ten percent for the other above expenditures are paid out of general operational revenues.

Question -- Why is there a deficit in busing operations, and what can be expected for this budget year?

Answer -- The main reason for the deficit is that the amount of money receivable from the Foundation Program for busing operations was fixed by the Government at a previous level of expenditure. It was based on the years 1968, 1969 and 1970. At the same time, the numbers of students and services have increased. It is understood that the transportation grants for 1971 will not be changed, and, therefore, a much larger deficit can be anticipated in this part of the school system's budget for 1972.

Question -- What transportation services are required by law?

Answer -- Section 156 of the School Act states that the School Committee shall "provide transport for pupils resident in the district or division to and from the site of the school that the board has directed the pupil to attend if the parent of the pupil resides at a distance greater that 3 miles from the site of the school that the board has directed the pupil to attend." It also states that the School Committee "shall be deemed to have complied (with the above) when transport is provided on a route that is not more than 1 1/2 miles from the residence of the pupil's parent." In practice, however, school buses operate much closer to residences than required by law.

In Drayton Valley Wednesdays at Sekura Auctions From 1:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m.

Among those attending our Manure Management meeting were: Doug Simpson, John Adam, Ralph Jespersen, Stan Case, Dave Jouan, Gary Ratke, Harvey Wagner and Al Neuman. I hope you will obtain their comments on the usefulness of this meeting. Speakers were well prepared, practical, and prompted an active question period.

Brian McQutty, University of Alberta made some very key points I thought were worthy of note. Firstly he recognized increased public sensitivity regarding air and water pollution; we must not allow ourselves or our representatives to be rushed into action without knowing the facts; we should not only recognize the pollution potential but also the fertilizer value of animal wastes; we should eliminate obvious pollution situations; we should consider waste management first, not last in construction of a new piggery, dairy, or feedlot; we should co-operate with governments, not stand off in isolation; and we could encourage and support waste management research as there is very little going on at present.

Brian West, Extension Engineer, A.D.A. had a slide presentation showing pros and cons of solid and liquid manure storage for operations in the North west region.

A. Gottel, Soils Branch A.D.A. discussed his new bulletin, "A Guide to Manure Disposal in Alberta."

Our local Health Inspector, Al Neuman was involved with Health Inspectors from Leduc, Sturgeon, and Strathcona on Provincial Board of Health Regulations respecting feedlots, piggeries and dairies.

We hope this meeting sponsored by four D.A. Districts acquainted producers with these authorities in each of their fields.

We now have brochures containing information on program, transportation, registration fees and applications for the Co-op. Youth Seminars, at Goldeye Lake Centre. If further information is required about these Seminars or you would like additional brochures please do not hesitate to contact us.

Who Can Attend? -- Any young adult between the ages of 16 and 20 years may attend who has not previously attended a Co-operati Youth Seminar.

Regular Meeting of Yellowhead Board

Present for the regular meeting of the Yellowhead School Division Board on April 12th were Trustees, George Monsma, A. L. Fausak, A. E. Winfield, S. Delano, M. A. Collin, Mrs. H. K. Nelson; County of Parkland Representative, Mrs. A. Clark; Superintendent of Schools, B. A. Chandler; and Assistant Superintendent, D. S. Blundell. The meeting was held at the Parkland Composite High School in Edson.

An educational leave of absence was granted to Mr. J. McMillan and Mr. T. Stephenson for the period June 19 to 30, 1972 to continue their studies on their master's program at the University of Oregon. The leave will be with partial pay as per policy with a deduction of 1/400th of annual salary per day to cover the cost of substitutes.

Resignations were accepted with regret from Mrs. A. J. Bolton, Mrs. E. Seibel, Mrs. E. M. MacAulay and Mrs. H. R. Simons. These teachers plan on retiring at the end of the current school year. The Board discussed the matter of retirement gifts to a teacher who retired after five years of service with the division rather than ten years as is presently the case. As well, the administration is to prepare a certificate of service to be presented to the retiring teachers.

Additions and changes were made to policy as follows:

Etiquette for Canada's National Flag -- The Board approved a policy encouraging schools to follow recommended etiquette for Canada's flag, namely to raise it in the morning and lower it at night.

Student Attendance -- To encourage regular student attendance, an addition to the regulations on attendance was approved. It states, "If a high school student is inexcuseably absent, the principal reserves the right to reduce the number of credits the student will be allowed.

Teacher Duties -- As an outcome of the administrative study, the Board recently approved a policy, which indicates that since teachers have much more professional preparation than previously that teachers should take a greater responsibility for initiating instructional improvement through planning and adapting Department of Education curriculum. To clarify this policy further the following regulations were approved: (a) The basic program to be followed by teachers in the division is that outlined by the Program of Studies of the Department of Education. (b) Major changes from the Program of Studies in content and method in a subject must have the approval of the principal and assistant superintendent. (c) Schools are encouraged to submit their ideas for innovation or major curriculum changes to the Education Development Committee.

Fund-Raising Projects in Schools -- To control the fund-raising projects organized by schools the Board approved the following policy and regulations:

Although the Board feels that the school program should be paid out of taxation, it recognizes the value of schools carrying out additional activities and projects which require expenditures, and therefore, approves of fund-raising projects subject to the following regulation: The number of fund-raising projects should be kept to a minimum; Where there is more than one school in town principals should coordinate their fund-raising projects; Fund-raising projects should not be held to supplement the division's budget for permanent equipment; Lotteries, including raffles and bingos, are not permitted as school fund-raising projects; and details of fund-raising projects should have the approval of the school's principal and a report of the project should be sumitted to the superintendent.

Three change orders were approved for the Grand Trunk High School. Since the ancillary room with the stage in it is to be also used for art, approval was given to bringing water and sewer into this room. As well, the necessary sinks and storage cupboards were approved. An order was approved to change the markings for the badminton court into metric units so as to conform with current standards.

Requests for subsidizing a program of out door education were received from Mountain View, Crescent Valley, Pine Grove, Peers, Fulham, and Evansview. The Board approved a subsidy of up to $4.00 per pupil for the outdoor education programs organized by these schools.

The Board gave formal approval to work of the committee that interviewed applicants for the position of Assistant Secretary-Treasurer. Mr. A. Mercier from Guy, Alberta was appointed to this position. He has had extensive experience in administrative positions with power companies in Quebec and Ontario, with Swanson Lumber Company in Alberta and recently with assistant municipal secretary-treasurer with the Municipal District of Smoky River.

Mrs. Ivy Jorgensen was granted a one-year leave of absence from para-professional staff of the division during 1971 - 1972. Approval of the leave had been delayed pending final approval of policy.

Since the Alberta School Trustees Association have now employed a lawyer, it was decided not to renew the retainer contract with Kroetch and Powellson of Edson.

The Trustees approved a new schedule of per diem rates and subsistance allowances for trustees as follows: For conferences involving an overnight stay, $50.00 per day plus necessary mileage and registration fees; full day meetings not involving an overnight stay, $25.00 per day plus meals, registration and necessary mileage; Board meetings will be $25.00 per day plus a $25.00 administration allowance, meals and necessary mileage; less than a full day board or committee meeting will be $18.75 per meeting, plus meals and necessary mileage; evening meetings held the same day as a full day meeting shall be classified as an additional half day meeting. Mileage will be paid if the meeting is held in a different location and involves extra mileage; and Trustees are urged to pool transportation.

An addendum to the teachers' collective agreement exempting the administrative assistant from the agreement was approved on the recommendation of the Board's economic committee. The administrative assistant will handle routine administrative matters in central office. The Board is currently waiting for the results of a vote being held by the economic committee of the Alberta Teachers' Association Local to exempt this position.

The Board gave approval to a motion indicating that all custodian's time must be organized in such a way so that every custodian gets one twenty-four-hour period free from work each week. In the case of schools with only one custodian, it is preferred that this free period fall on Sunday. It has been noted that some custodians are not organizing their time this way.

Since grade X and XI year-end results are now processed locally rather than by the Department of Education, the grade X and XI students will be dismissed at the regular dismissal time on June 29, 1972, the same as for all other students. Classes and final evaluations for these students will continue up until this time. The matter of early dismissal of grade X and XI will be included in the discussions with staff regarding the organization of the 1972-1973 school year.

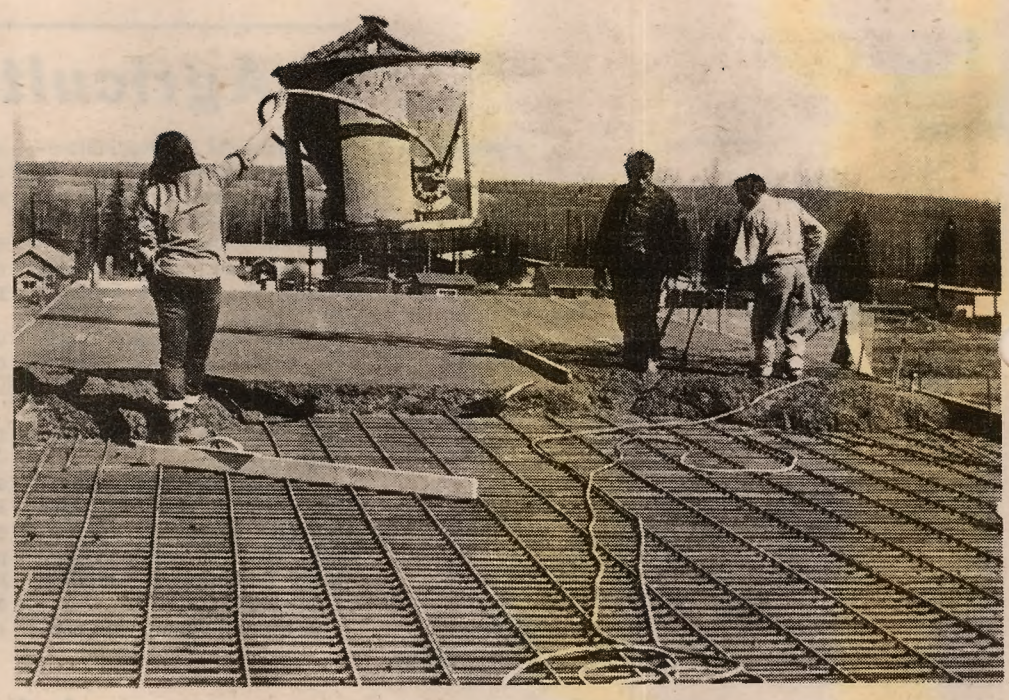
Information was received regarding a Special General Meeting to be held by the Alberta School Trustees' Association in Calgary on June 12 and 13, 1972 to "consider finance, local control, and the role of the school board" as well as to discuss the implications for education contained in the Blair Report." Since the government is currently considering these matters, the A.S.T.A. feels that it is crucial for trustees to define their position and make it known to the government.

The equipment lists and specifications for the Grand Trunk High School have been received and it was noted that the lists presently total approximately $45,000. more than available revenue. The Superintendent of Schools was directed to investigate the possibility of transferring more equipment from the old high school.

An administration report was received on the manner in which jurisdictions purchase insurance. It was noted that approximately half of the jurisdictions in Alberta tender while the other half buy it through the Alberta Association of Municipalities. The Yellowhead Division buys insurance through a local agent who divides the commission among other established agencies in the division.

The Board approved purchase of accident insurance at the rate of $.03 per student per day for the outdoor education program.

The next Board meeting will be held at the Harry Collinge High School in Hinton on Wednesday, May 10, starting at 9:00 a.m.



Men are working steadily on the Grand Trunk High School at Evansburg in order to complete it by the fall term. The snow storm last weekend caused a minor setback when the high winds blew down a portion of one wall.

LEGISLATIVE REPORT

PETER TRYNCHY, M.L.A.

The Provincial Government has announced the establishment of a Select Committee of the Legislature to study foreign investments in Alberta.

This eight-man Committee will be headed by Julian Koziak (P.C., Edmonton-Strathcona), with members being, Don Getty, Minister of Inter-Governmental Affairs, Ron Ghitter (P.C. - Calgary Bow), Grant Notley (N.D.P. - Spirit River-Fairview), Thomas Chambers (P.C. - Edmonton Calder), and myself (P.C. - Whitecourt).

The Committee will submit a report and make recommendations on our findings by the 1973 spring session of the Legislature and indications are that we will receive submissions from all interested groups and we will also hold public hearings on the foreign ownership issue in different parts of the Province if we deem such hearings are necessary.

The Committee's objectives are:

* To recommend ways and means which will ensure a greater participation by Albertans in the ownership and control of Alberta industry.

* To investigate and assess ways and means of providing as many opportunities and incentives as possible for Albertans and Canadians to invest in the equities and ownership of companies operating in the Province.

* To evaluate the extent of sufficient sources of investment funds in Canada and Alberta for the future economic development of Alberta and the need to create jobs for young Albertans coming into the labour force in the years ahead.

* To examine and need for restrictions for non-Albertan and non-Canadian control of certain key sectors of Alberta's economy.

* To assess the economic consequences of any new federal restrictions upon investment in Alberta whether by way of legislation or otherwise.

The S.T.E.P. (Student Temporary Employment Program) program will be announced shortly, probably by the end of this week, and this should enable many towns and communities throughout Alberta to participate in this program. S.T.E.P. is for employment of students between the ages of 18 and 24 years, and should provide some relief to the annual problem of unemployment during the summer months.

Of particular interest to the residents of Fox Creek and the surrounding area was the announcement by the Attorney-General, Mr. Leitch, of the opening of a Liquor Store at Fox Creek.

Receptacles shall not exceed 18 inches in diameter or a height of 28 inches, to be lined with a plastic bag and contents not to exceed 75 pounds.

Receptacles must be kept at the rear of the premises on a stand 24 inches above the ground (Where no lane exists arrangements are made for collection)

Receptacles shall not be placed in lane or street.

Garbage shall be drained and wrapped in paper or placed in a plastic bag before placing in container.

Refuse or brush may be burned or made into bundles not to exceed four feet in length or a weight of 75 pounds and placed beside the receptacle.

Burning barrels shall be covered with steel mesh and all residue must be placed in the regulation receptacle for removal.

Burning is prohibited on Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Sunday and between the hours of 8:00 P.M. and 8:00 A.M.

Burning of leather and rubber is also prohibited.

The above is a very brief synopsis of the regulations and does not cover all the provisions of the by-law therefore a copy of the by-law shall be posted at the Village Office and various business places in Evansburg.

Residents are requested to make themselves familiar with the regulations as the by-law is now in effect.

TOWN OF DRAYTON VALLEY

EMERGENCY WATER USE NOTICE

The Council earnestly solicits your aid in maintaining a balance between the supply and demand of our communal water supply. The Town is presently in the throes of constructing a Water Treatment Plant on the bank of the North Saskatchewan River. The pipe line has been installed and the river intake portion has been completed. However until the plant itself has been completed we must continue to rely on the water wells as our source. During the latter years these wells have been gradually becoming less adequate - both from the point of view of not being able to produce as much water and more and more water being required because of growth and expansion of the town - until each year the supply becomes less and less able to meet the demand.

It is pretty well assured that this will be the last summer of rationing, as the new plant should be in operation by September. In the meantime we as householders are asked to curtail our water use to insure that everyone gets a fair share and there will still be some in reserve for fire safety measures. If all use water reasonably and in accord with the rationing program directive below, there should be no real hardship for anyone.

LAWN, GARDEN & TREE WATERING SCHEDULE

PERMITTED IN THE TOWN OF DRAYTON VALLEY

NORTH SIDE OF 50th AVENUE

Mondays - Wednesdays - Fridays

Water Between 7:00 p.m. and 9:00 p.m. ONLY

SOUTH SIDE OF 50th AVENUE

Tuesdays - Thursdays - Saturdays

Water Between 7:00 p.m. and 9:00 p.m. ONLY

ALL THE TOWN - SUNDAYS

Water Between 7:00 p.m. and 9:00 p.m. ONLY

Rationing of water may be instituted by a Municipal Corporation when the necessity of same becomes apparent. Our water supply situation is now such that it is deemed necessary to institute the program of rationing as outlined above. Anyone contravening this rationing directive will be liable to prosecution.

The Mayor and Council are confident that the water users in Drayton Valley will react favorably to this emergency measure and co-operate completely.

Local firemen were kept busy last week when they answered four calls for help. The picture shows them at the Urchyshyn home west of Drayton Valley where fire was apparently caused by a small boy playing with matches on April 26. On April 28 firemen fought a small grass fire at St. Anthony's School; a grass fire one mile south of Campion Corner; and a farm fire where buildings and hay were destroyed at the Ken Landers' farm on the old Ferry Road.

Quarter Million Spent By Elks on Research

In a report to coincide with Speech and Hearing Month, B.P.O. Elks Lodge No. 391 and their auxiliary, the Order of the Royal Purple, have received a report from the national committee of the Elks Purple Cross informing them as to how the funds have been allocated to the early identification of the hard-of-hearing Canadian child.

The Elks have placed emphasis on alerting the general public concerning the need for the earlier possible identification of hearing impaired children. They point out that much can be done to prevent a hearing-impaired child from being doomed to a world of silence if corrective measures can be implemented before that child is a year old.

The Elks are providing a public awareness campaign through outside billboards, radio, and brochures, together with films and slides. A quarter of a million dollars has been spent in research projects and the establishment of clinical facilities in some areas.

The future plans include continuation of public awareness programs, financial assistance to existing facilities, and assistance in rehabilitation of the hearing-impaired child by providing much needed equipment.

There is a shortage of professionally trained personnel and scholarships may be made available to those wishing to take special training to assist the young hearing impaired.

I've had many calls in recent weeks on cleaning irons. I felt perhaps my column readers might be interested in these tips as well.

IRONS

We are now blessed with many easy care synthetics which require very little ironing. Synthetics have one inherent problem - heat sensitivity. Often irons are either set too hot or when you are ironing you move from one type of material or fabric to another without adjusting the temperature setting, this of course gives disastrous results.

Once you've resolved what to do with your husbands shirts with the iron mark branded on the back or your new fortrel dress, you have a blackened soleplate to deal with.

REMEDIES

Fabric which has melted on the sole plate can be removed with a full edge of a knife or spatula. If the iron cools, reheat it until the melted fabric is soft. Remove the excess with paper towels. The remainder may be removed by running the warm iron over salt sprinkled on brown paper.

A thick paste of mild household cleanser and one ounce of glycerine may also be used by covering the soleplate of the iron, heating until the mixture smokes. Let it cool, then wipe off.

To remove stubborn spots rub if necessary with a fine steel wool dipped in detergent. Wipe with a damp cloth, dry at once.

STARCH BUILDUP

Starch buildup can be removed with a damp cloth dipped in baking soda. Let the iron cool to warm, wipe the soleplate and rub the ironing surface lightly. Pass iron, while warm over a piece of waxed paper. Wipe soleplate with a clean damp cloth, dry and polish thoroughly.

THE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

We have information sheets on types, features and care of small electric appliances which you can write for to Box 510, Stony Plain.

SUB-MITS

FROM THE ELEMENTARY SCHOOL

Registration of next year's beginners has shown a decided drop to that of previous years. This year only 80 beginners have been registered. If you have a beginner that has not been enrolled please contact the school at 542-3544.

The Crazy Hat contest of two weeks ago produced very original and unusual designs. Winners were David Sommers, grade 4, from Mrs. Mayn's room; Shelly Lyle and Kim Pruss, grade 5 from Miss Yakimchuk's room and Robert Kmyta, grade 6 from Mr. Smedland's room.

Anyone who has been in the grade 1, 2 and 3 building recently can't help but notice the bright new colors in the hallways etc. The painting has been in progress since Christmas and the results are very cheerful.

Plans and training are very evident for the annual Track and Field Days to be held in June.

And then there is the story that comes from Mrs. Floden's room. Said Mrs. Floden, "Now class, get this finished before you go home tonight." Whispered a student to the boy across the aisle, "Ya, I gotta to finish this, so I can beat up (no name given) after school."

WHY IS MUSIC NEEDED IN THE SCHOOLS ?

by A. F. PIERCE

The use of the word "need" in conjunction with music in the school may on the surface appear to be an exaggeration, particularly in view of the fact that from time to time music is decried as a "frill" in the curriculum. But if I were to say that "music is a necessity" this would be even a stronger and more unusual statement. Be it frequently or rarely made, however, the statement is true.

It is true in the sense that some education in music is necessary for a well-educated person. The main objective of modern education is the development of the whole child. A properly conducted school music program ministers to his physical, mental, emotional, spiritual and social needs.

It is untrue in the sense that music is necessary for existence. Music is not necessary in order to build a fire, erect a shelter, or grow a field of wheat. If mankind were interested only in existence, then music would indeed be a "frill", a pleasurable diversion. But the human race since the time of the Cro-Magnon man has been seeking something more than mere existence. Man contemplates and thinks. Furthermore, he places a value on the quality of objects and on his own experiences. This is essentially what makes him different from all other creatures in the animal kingdom. Lecomte du Nouy in his book "Human Destiny", says in reference to the paintings in the caves, the sculptures and engravings on bone and ivory of the Cro-Magnon man:

"These useless manifestations--the word is taken in the sense of 'not absolutely necessary to maintain or defend life'--mark the most important date in all the history of mankind. They are the proof of the progress of the human spirit in the direction of evolution, that is, in the direction leading away from the animal. The primitive 'useless' gestures of man are in reality the only ones that count."

The point is that when man seeks something higher than existence he turns to reflective activity such as the arts represent. Music and other aesthetic experiences are necessary if man is to reach his full stature; he is not fully human without them. Not fully human without the arts and music--a shocking and untenable proposition?

Education for centuries has sensed this fundamental point. Plato placed music high in the curriculum of the school. In the medieval university music was a part of the quadrivium of studies necessary for a master's degree. Today the curriculum has enlarged and changed, but the attitude still prevails that the well-educated person needs among other things an aesthetic sensitivity.

We all agree that music has been essential to man throughout history. It is equally essential today. Music has the power to unite and solidify social groups from the family to the world community. The most successfull efforts to improve international relations are said to be through cultural exchanges of the arts, particularly music, which communicate feelings and emotions despite language barriers.

When new art forms appear, the old are not discarded, because humanity remains essentially the same through the ages. Thus, music gives evidence of permanence, stability and order in our changing world. For example, Mozart communicates to us clearly through the art form of music, while old forms of communication in other areas (such as smoke signals, the Pony Express, and the crystal radio receiver) will no longer suffice.

It has been repeatedly demonstrated that any tyrant must control the arts in order to control the people. The arts are allies of freedom and democracy in that they represent freedom of the human spirit to communicate with society.

A great deal has been said recently about the worthy use of leisure time. An aspect of quality in education during the next 20 years will be a great enrichment in art, in music, in literature, in all those occupations of mankind which we broadly call cultural. Since 1900, the average life span has increased by 20 years, while the average work week has decreased by 20 hours. These trends will continue. The question is whether these added years, these new hours of freedom from toil, will be spent to any real advantage. will they be used to refine life or to cheapen it? In the coming years the schools will respond to these questions by a new emphasis on the pursuit of happiness.

Music is one of the most common avocations in North America. Next to the teaching profession in the United States there are more people employed in the field of music than any other particular field. Far greater than the number of people who take part in musical groups is the number who listen to music. Because of mass communication and recordings, practically the entire population of the nation is involved with music as listeners. Thus, the training of intelligent listeners is one of music education's greatest challenges and opportunities. Teen-agers are going to use their energies in one way or another, and music is one excellent means of occupying them constructively.

It has been said that the strength of a nation lies in its art and music and literature, and its philosophical sophistication and the quality of its social sciences, just as much as in its physics and chemistry or its electrical engineering. Those who suppose that great music or great poetry or a knowledge of classical literature are not essential to either the quality or even the survival of a nation and its culture are quite unaware of the lessons of the past.

What are our purposes in the music instruction that is being given? When I approach the subject of purposes I always keep in mind that music is first of all a school subject, and in common with other subjects in the school, it seeks to teach the students something. It is a curricular subject and thus it is considerably more than "show biz". With these points in mind let us examine briefly some of the direct purposes for music instruction.

To Understand and Appreciate the Aesthetic Qualities of Music -- The primary function of music in the school is to develop in children the ability to respond to beautiful sound with pleasure and understanding. Beauty is an essential element in the health and happiness of mankind. All normal human beings need to symbolize their experiences through art media, and music satisfies this need through its unique organization of pitches, tone qualities, and rhythms that comprise aural beauty, or beauty that we hear. When all children receive the education in music to which they are entitled, their perception and discrimination of aural beauty will be reflected in a higher quality of the music utilized in their daily living.

To Transmit the Cultural Heritage -- Music is a significant part of that heritage, and as such it occupies a unique position in general education. Throughout history, man has conceptualized his every activity by making music about it. Music, man, and living are one. It is a superior means for children to learn about human experiences; it assists understanding of man from primitive times to the present day. Because music is an accurate reflection of humanity through the ages, no program of music or education in general can omit it without failing to meet acceptable standards.

To Foster Creativity -- Survival of cultures and nations depends upon man's ability to make changes, to meet changes, and to adjust or control them. This requires creative minds. Music, with its varied activities, offers unique possibilities for children to learn to be creative on their own levels of development. Creativity takes place whenever the child discovers new relationships and whenever he projects himself into an activity and makes it something that at the time belongs uniquely to him. This purpose of music education is revealed over and over to me as I watch the students discover new relationships while learning to play an instrument in our band program.

To Teach Social Education -- Man is a social being and music is a social art; thus man and music are naturally linked together. Through music activities, students can learn to understand that individual differences are characteristic of humanity, to know and to understand themselves, and to be sensitive to the feelings and problems of others.

To Provide Worthy Recreation -- Music includes strong elements of play that we as teachers can guide into channels of musical learning in the classroom.

To Develop Intellectual Capacities -- Knowledge of music comes primarily from the study of "the music itself." The learning of facts about music, such as those concerned with music theory and composers, is best derived from this study. Music communicates, and the vehicles of this communication include melody, dynamics, style, harmony, rhythm, repetition, contrast, variation, instrumentation, and tone quality. The ability to use musical skills and knowledge in the solution of musical problems indicates the degree of "understanding" possessed by an individual.

To Acquire and Utilize Music Skills -- Growth in music skills is essential, because without it, the preceding purposes of music education cannot be realized. For example, if listening skills have not been developed, children can comprehend little of what they hear. Persistent singing with faulty pitch and with poor tone quality will fail to develop understanding either of aesthetic concepts or of our cultural heritage, and it will discourage creativity. Failure to understand music notation constitutes a barrier to learning to sing or play music literature. Unless music is performed in a way that is appealing and satisfying, the purposes of social education, recreation, and physical and mental health cannot be served. Therefore, the development of music skills has a logical and essential purpose in the education of students.

It is my hope that this article has revealed briefly to you why "music is a necessity". One cannot describe the feeling of accomplishment that an individual receives when playing or singing in a group performance. It is an unique experience for the individual taking part, thus choirs and bands are thriving in our school systems. Bands and choirs have many excellent opportunities for travel and summer camps which cannot be overlooked in the overall

HART CANTELON

Dear Mr. Cantelon:

Our 19 year old daughter, we think, has a serious problem of some sort but will not let us help her. She is an above-average-student, quite popular and well-liked by her friends. However, she did have a problem in school with her teachers, especially the ones who did not agree with her in school and tried to discipline her by keeping her in after class or making her write essays, etc. This gradually turned her into rebellion against most of the older generation, and she grouped into this the whole "establishment", teachers, clergy, police, counsellors, etc. This type of behaviour, we thought, was a stage of growing up, but when the drugs started creeping into the school, we later learned, that she did take part in these wild parties one hears about. We tried to get her a job, but she eventually went to Vancouver. We refused to support her so she went to the welfare there and got assistance for a retraining program. Last week, she phoned us and asked us to take her home because she felt very ill and depressed. We sent her a train ticket and urged her to get counselling. But she got angry with this suggestion and has returned to Vancouver. She believes that a person does not have to work or have any responsibilities to be happy. She can't stand to live in the city because she says it makes her nervous and paranoid. She apparently wants to join a colony of people who have their own island off from Vancouver; grow their own food, make their own clothes, do as they please. Should we bring her home by force?

Signed: Despairing

Dear Despairing:

This is the most agonizing time in a parent's life. You just have to wait, like the wife of an alcoholic, until your daughter comes to the point when she wants help and will seek it. If you know her present address, I will be pleased to have a minister or priest, who are personal friends of mine, make a call on her without her realizing that they are part of the "establishment". Perhaps, a stranger could encourage her to get counselling help, even though you failed in getting her to accept this guidance. There must be times when she is desperately lonely and confused else she would not have called for help last week. But I don't want to build up your hopes. This helping hand could be refused as well, and all of us will be back where we started. But it's worth a try. In the meantime be assured that you have the good wishes and prayers of scores of people you will never come to know.

PETER WARD'S OTTAWA VIEWPOINT

The Election Guessing Game

By PETER WARD

Copyright 1972, Toronto Sun Syndicate

OTTAWA — Taking the political temperature of the country with an election atmosphere building is a game of educated guessing.

To guide the pundit there are things like the regular Gallup Poll, those perpetual mini-polls held by backbenchers in their constituencies, and the semi-secret polls commissioned by political parties.

The latter two, needless to say, should be held in some suspicion, but they are still useful guides.

Add to the above; conversation with politicians around the morning coffee table—particularly on Tuesdays, when the MPs are fresh back from forays into their ridings—and snippets of information picked up from cogs in the machinery of the different parties.

A week or so ago I picked up an extra indicator, which I found extremely impressive. It was at the hail-and-farewell party for Ottawa's George McIlraith, the retired cabinet minister who has been the constant recipient of whopping majorities in his Ottawa Centre riding for eons.

The McIlraith "machine" is legendary in Liberal politics and the riding is considered so safe a Liberal seat that no less than six hopefuls are panting after the nomination to replace the venerable George.

In the course of several hours at the McIlraith farewell party, I made an interesting discovery. The "machine" is made up of dozens of small personal loyalty cells, each one with a family or well-known local individual at the centre as a McIlraith booster—usually because McIlraith had performed some particularly human service above and beyond the call of duty for that individual.

I managed conversational penetration of about three such cells and in each one the mood was the same. This new Liberal party isn't the McIlraith brand of liberalism, they said.

The general concensus was that the next Canadian government would be a minority Liberal administration—one or two people ventured to say that a short spell in opposition would do the party no harm.

Now when opinions like that are garnered from members of a solid Liberal "machine," it's impressive. It means that Ottawa Centre is far from a safe seat—it's up for grabs.

And from the way I read it, the same verdict can be registered for the whole coming election. It's going to be close, but it's anybody's ball game.

Eared Grebe — Horned Grebe

TWO GREBES

These two water birds are near the same size, about 13 ins. in length. Both male and female have identical plumage and feather tufts on the head. The eared has an all black head and neck with a large "ear" spray of golden-yellow, and a pronounced head crest. The bill is sharp with the tip upturned. The horned-grebe has a black head with striking golden crests reaching from the eye beyond the back of the head. The eared shows preference for larger marshes and will nest in large colonies, the horned inhabits many small marshes and sloughs, occasionally nesting in loose colonies of half a dozen or so.

... is now getting into high gear, although the weatherman tried his best to dampen it down, and all residents are requested to participate. Gather up all the accumulations of the year that you deem rubbish and prepare it such that it may most conveniently be picked up by our collection forces. Clear out those basement corners that have become fire prone and not only make them tidy but safe as well.

A word about people using the waste disposal facilities: There are signs posted to designate the areas for various refuse disposal. You are asked to co-operate fully, otherwise indiscriminate dumping means additional expense to restore order to the chaos created and that is YOUR MONEY. Only this weekend some thoughtless individual unloaded a quantity of willow branches, etc. right on the middle of the Nuisance Ground Road. This, of course, meant the services of a couple of men and equipment besides, to clear the road for use by our Garbage Contractor. A little thought for the other fellow coming behind can eliminate all of these problems.

In leaving we would very much like to remind everyone to prepare their waste, refuse and garbage bundles to assure convenience and ease to the collectors.

Long-term Credit Improves Farm Economy

OTTAWA -- The use of long term credit has improved the economic position of many Canadian farmers.

It has paved the way for farm consolidation and assisted users to improve the efficiency and productivity of their farms.

These are the conclusions of a Farm Survey Report carried out by the Farm Credit Corporation.

The objective of the survey was to investigate, analyze and measure the progress attained by farm operators who had received loans under the Farm Credit Act.

The survey was carried out to provide a feedback of information necessary for the assessment of future policy and lending programs.

The total sample was randomly selected and consisted of 1,294 farms which had received FCC loans in the 1965-66 fiscal year.

The survey covered two time periods, 1965 and 1969.

In that period, the FCC borrowers, after disbursement of the loan, increased their farm investment -- in real estate, equipment and livestock -- by 45.2 per cent compared to 26.4 per cent for all commercial farms in Canada.

The average 1965 investment of FCC borrowers was lower than the commercial averages in British Columbia, Alberta and Manitoba.

In 1969, it exceeded the commercial average in all provinces.

Average farm debt for FCC borrowers, after loan, in 1965 was $24,945 or 2.7 times greater than the $9,212 average debt for all commercial farms.

In 1969, the average farm debt for FCC borrowers had increased by 24.5 per cent to $30,945. This was 2.4 times larger than the 1969 commercial average debt of $12,639.

FCC borrowers in 1969 had an average equity of 58.1 per cent. This increased to 64.20 per cent by 1969. On the other hand, average equity for commercial farms decreased from 38.1 per cent in 1965 to 81.7 per cent in 1967.

FCC farms exceeded the averages for all commercial farms in per cent growth of equity, lending support to the hypothesis that the initial long term credit obtained by FCC borrowers provided an impetus for growth beyond that achieved by farmers who did not use similar credit.

Of the 45.2 per cent change in farm investment for all FCC farms from 1965 to 1969, 26.6 per cent was attributable to inflation or price changes.

Therefore, the real capital growth of FCC farms was 18.6 per cent.

However, for all commercial farms there was a slight decrease of 0.2 per cent in real capital per farm.

For Canada as a whole, FCC farms inproved their net returns to labor, management and capital by 66.6 per cent, compared to an increase of 30.5 per cent for commercial farms.

A comparison of only two time periods is of limited value when comparing income generation and potential since these are always subject to cyclical variation. However, it is apparent that FCC borrowers have fared better than their commercial counterparts.

Part of this is no doubt due to superior resource management which has included the use of long term credit to improve the viability of existing units.

There are still a large number of commercial farmers who are not using long term credit.

As credit becomes increasingly important in the financial operations of farms, greater responsibility will be placed on institutional lenders to ensure that these credit needs are satisfied.

Why Music?

picture of music. Governments are realizing the "necessity" for music in the schools. Some states have made music compulsory in the junior high system. Our own County of Parkland is concerned. Music in the school system is relatively new here and thus the county is anxious to guide the music program so that it will develop to very high standards. I am pleased to say that I committee of three including myself has been set up to chart the course for music in the elementary, junior and senior high schools in the county. We are anxious to see an interwoven program throughout the system with long range planning for the spending of finances. I am looking forward to the music program in Drayton Valley in the future and hope you as parents and students will reap the benefits for years to come for "music is a necessity" for a full life.

LIBRARY NEWS

The surplus book sale was quite successful. Thanks to all the people who took time to come.

There are new books this week in every category. Science Fiction is becoming more and more popular. "Change Song" by Lee Hoffman is an intriguing fantasy about another world in which the elements control the actions of people. "No One Goes There Now" is another science fiction telling of the discovery of the planet Dan by people of the earth after years of exploration.

"A Deadly Kind of Lonely" is our latest addition to the mystery collection. The time is the great depression, the locale is the sheep country of Texas and the theme is murder. "Penmarric" by Susan Howath has been compared to du Maurier's "Rebecca". Both are set in Cornwall. Mark Castalleck is the central figure. All his children, those of his wife and those of his mistress, are brought up together at Penmarric, the family estate. Out of their relationships grow bitter hatred and feuds.

Francis Clifford's latest book "The Blind Side" is the story of two brothers--one is a spy and the other a priest.

There are a number of new books for both the juvenile and picture-book crowd.

Library hours are Tuesday and Friday 3:00-5:00 and 7:00-9:00, with Tuesday noon especially for bus children.

Two Men Convicted

Lawrence Hopfe, 21, and Duayne Heinz, 20, both of Wetaskiwin, who were arrested by RCMP in Red Deer April 19th on charges of breaking and entering schools, were convicted in court April 24th.

Hopfe received two years in a penitentiary and Heinz 18 months in Fort Saskatchewan jail on charges of seven breaking and enterings, including the Drayton Valley High School.

Control Water Erosion Now!

Now is the time to take note of water erosion problems on your land. Channels, caused by water runoff, are very evident in the spring on many summerfollow fields before the channels are covered by tillage operations.

Bill Toews, soil conservation specialist with the Alberta department of agriculture, points out that this type of erosion is much more serious than may appear on the surface. Often the channels get gradually larger and larger without being noticed until in a few year they are taking a considerable toll on crop yeilds.

According to Mr. Toews, erosion problems can be eliminated by the same type of land management as that recommended for conserving winter and spring moisture. A modified form of contour cropping is one of these management practices. This method of erosion control generally entails tilling the field along a slope rather than up and down it. In the fall the last tillage operation carried out on either stubble or summerfollow should ridge the soil surface at right angles to the slope to hold winter and spring moisture.

In those cases where the channels have become so large that they have formed gullies, the best course of action is to grass them down. This recommendation also applied to potential gullies. Mr. Toews reports that financial assistance is available for certain erosion projects through provincial agricultural service board grants. Applications should be made through municipal offices.

Publications on erosion prevention and gully filling are available from district agriculturists and the publications office of the Alberta department of agriculture, Edmonton.

CHANGE IN PUBLISHING DAY

Although the management of this paper dislikes very much the business of our publishing day flittering back and forth, we have found over the past several months that Tuesday issuance of the paper presents too many problems to be satisfactory. During these trial months the heavy bulk of the work was occasioned on the weekends when our staff is normally absent.

Therefore, we are returning to the Wednesday printing day where we hope to remain.

We are, however, taking steps to insure that readers outside the town will still receive their papers at the customary time. Arrangements are being completed with the Post Office Department to have a member of our staff deliver bundles to post offices in surrounding communities. Papers are being delivered by this method this week.

This change will permit us to advance deadlines as follows:
